

Four Allied Tank Columns Smash Into Old Iron Triangle

1,000 Chinese Reds Killed Or Wounded

U.S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Saturday (AP) — Four Allied Tank columns, smashing into the Reds' old "iron triangle" yesterday, killed or wounded nearly 1,000 Chinese Reds, Allied officers estimated today.

Only one of the four tank teams knifing into the enemy's central front positions ran into trouble. It was hit by a swarming infantry attack, antitank fire and a barrage of mortar and artillery shells. It fought its way out.

Allied officers said the assault raised "merry hell" behind the enemy lines on a front where the Communists were believed to be massing, possibly for an autumn offensive.

The coordinated armored thrust on the central Korean front was aimed at Pyongyang, 29 miles north of Parallel 38, apex of the old Communist build-up triangle.

With elements of three divisions, it was one of the heaviest tank-infantry assaults of the war. Field dispatches reported it accomplished its first objective—to shoot up all Communist strongpoints and then withdraw.

Resistance varied. The Chinese Reds fought like demons against two tank-tipped forces. There was only light opposition to the third force.

In eastern Korea, the bloody five-week-old "battle of the hills" diminished to sporadic patrol clashes. Both sides appeared spent from the bone-wearying struggle up and down the steep, muddy slopes.

The action on the central front—called "Operation Cleaver"—was described as a heavy armored raid, rather than an offensive.

One column struck out from the southeast corner of the triangle, near Kumhwa, and crashed into Red positions northeast of the town. It ran into a storm of Communist fire and was heavily engaged all day.

An Allied patrol on the flank of this column was pinned down and called by radio for help from two other patrols. The Reds kept the relieving units at bay for five hours, but they finally broke through to the isolated patrol.

The second armored column clanked north of Kumhwa but ran into stiff opposition after moving only about a mile out of Allied lines. One officer reported that it seemed the Reds "had anti-tank guns in every nook and corner of the valley."

The third column, pushing off north of Chorwon, met only light resistance in a drive that carried within a short distance of Pyongyang. Chorwon is at the southwestern corner of the old iron triangle.

On the western front, fighter-bombers from the U. S. Fifth Air Force destroyed seven Russian-built T-34 tanks and damaged two others.

Returning pilots reported there was no possibility that the nine tanks were dummies. They were fire-bombed and rocketed near Hwangju, on the main road from Sariwon to the Korean Red capital of Pyongyang.

Brannan Urging Farmers To Hold Crops Off Marts

Washington (AP)—The Agriculture department will put on one of the most vigorous campaigns of its history this season to get farmers to hold crops off markets as a means of strengthening their prices.

Farm prices as a whole have dropped nearly seven per cent since they reached a record high last February. Only six of 30 major commodities are bringing the parity price declared by law to be equally fair to growers and those who buy their products.

Already the department has placed thousands of field workers on the job to urge growers to store cotton under government price support loans for the purpose of preventing a further drop in the commodity. Rice, corn and soy beans are similarly affected.

May Raise Pensions

Washington (AP)—A bill calling for increased payments to retired rail workers and rail workers' survivors yesterday won approval of the House Rules committee.

King George To Undergo Lung Surgery

London (AP)—King George VI of England has consented to a lung operation and preparations to perform it in Buckingham palace were rushed ahead last night.

Several ambulances moved into the palace grounds by a back gate soon after the King's doctors announced he agreed to the surgery.

The ambulances presumably carried surgical and other equipment to turn a palace apartment into an operating theater.

There have been only hints as to the exact nature of the King's lung trouble. Reports published abroad speculated it might be cancer or tuberculosis.

Plans of Princess Elizabeth, the heir presumptive, and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, to sail next week on a visit to Canada and the U. S. were altered by the decision to operate. Now they plan to fly the Atlantic October 2 arriving in time to carry out their scheduled tour as previously outlined.

British newspapers, worried for some time over the King's prolonged illness referred last night only to the bulletin from the panel of King's physicians saying he agreed to the operation.

The panel consists of two surgeons, one an expert on surgical treatment of tuberculosis; two specialists on respiratory diseases and three general physicians.

The Archbishop of Canterbury, active head of the Church of England under the King as "defender of the faith," called for special prayers for the King in all Britain's churches Sunday.

The Archbishop sent the King a telegram saying the nation would pray "that you be preserved in safety through the impending operation and by its means be restored to full health."

DiSalle Sees 'Slight' Rises

San Francisco (AP)—Michael V. DiSalle, U. S. director of price stabilization, told delegates to the American Federation of Labor convention here yesterday that price controls have had a powerful effect against inflation.

But he warned that the fight isn't over.

"We face renewed pressures from the powerful interests who hate all government price controls," he said.

His critics, he declared, "talk of free enterprise, but their motto is 'gouge thy neighbor.'"

In a press conference preceding his prepared convention speech, the pudgy price control boss predicted that even with a weakened control law, prices will not skyrocket in the next year.

He declined to give his estimate of the percentage rise in the next 12 months, but said he regarded a seven per cent estimate by a group of leading economists as "extremely high."

In this, his prediction differed from that of Stabilization Administrator Eric Johnston, who Thursday told AFL delegates an economic "typhoon" is approaching.

DiSalle said the next few months probably will be a very stable period. He said the price cap he held "pretty much" through another year.

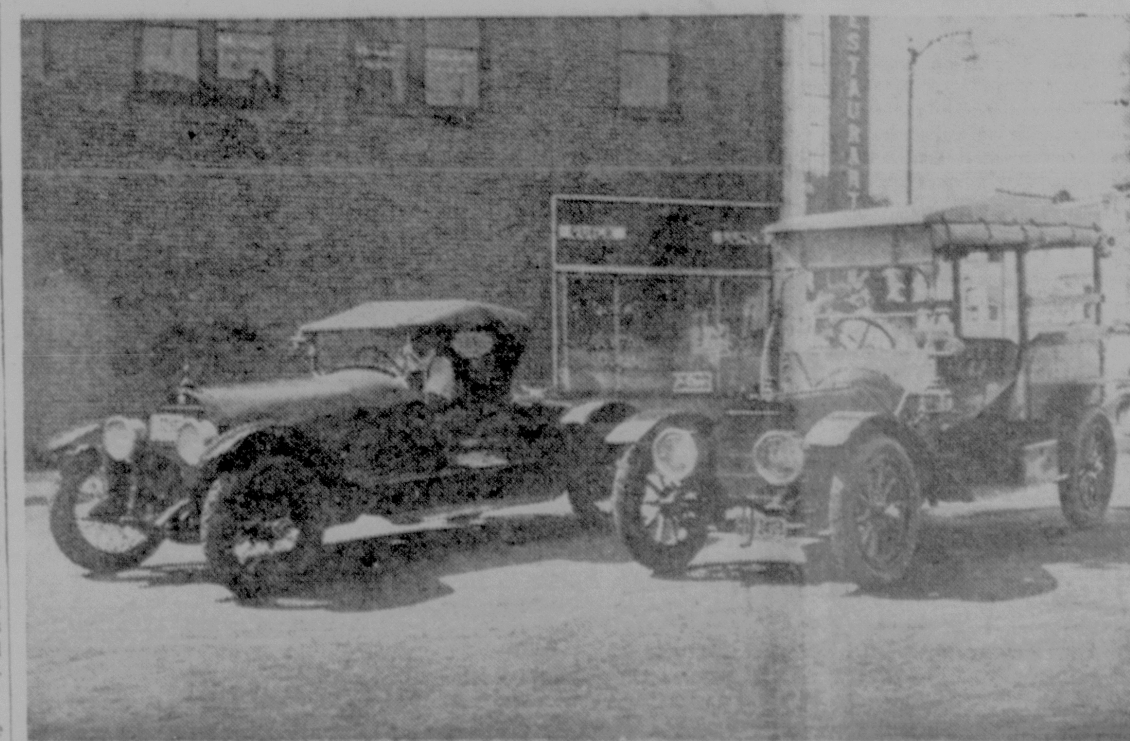

Blind Triplets Reunited With Parents After Five Months

Boston (AP)—Barry, Harry and Larry—the blind Terry triplets from Pine Knot, Ky.—had a joyful reunion with their mother and dad yesterday after five months separation.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Terry hadn't seen the rollicking three-year-olds since April when the youngsters were sent here for training thanks to thousands of folks who want them to get a real start in life.

Originally it was planned to have the boys go home from the Boston Nursery for Blind Babies, but slight illness to Harry prevented. He had been in Children's hospital, but was released Wednesday.

Rev. Morris H. Coers, pastor of the Immanuel Baptist church in Covington, Ky., started the fund-raising drive to finance the babies' stay here. Contributions also made

150 Antique Cars All Shined Up For Glidden Tour Ending Thursday At Skytop In Poconos

Pittsburgh (AP)—Memories of bygone days will crowd the minds of Pittsburghers Sunday as 150 antique autos from all parts of the United States rattle out of the Steel City in a revival of the famous Glidden tour. The peaceful days of the Gay Nineties period will spread finally to Skytop, Pa. in the Pocono Mountains where the ancient "Chuggers" will terminate their cross-state tour next Thursday.

Lost Purse Discovered Under Hood

Henryville — There's been many a story about the lost cat and the abandoned dog that found their way home hundreds—even thousands of miles, but here's one about a lost purse containing $8 which came home to its owner.

Mrs. Sallie Henry had the misfortune to lose the change purse several months ago. Naturally, she was concerned even in these days of inflated currency.

As time passed, however, Mrs. Henry became reconciled to her loss. Diligent search failed to produce any good luck.

Last Tuesday, Mrs. Henry and her brother, Kenneth Brutzman, were riding in his car, making several calls when motor trouble developed. The vehicle was taken to a nearby garage.

First check by the mechanic was on the battery. There lay the long lost purse intact where it had apparently been riding for many months. And the battery was not overcharged.

Man Found Dead, Standing Erect

Elkhart, Ind. (AP)—Amos F. Shoup, 79, of Elkhart was found standing erect, but dead, between his automobile and its partly opened door.

Dr. Burton E. Kintner, Elkhart county coroner, said Shoup apparently started to put on his boots to go huckeberry picking.

The car rolled forward. A tree pushed the car door against the aged man, pressing his neck against the top of the car. The knot of his necktie strangled him.

Vandals Paint Bust Of Truman

Kansas City (AP)—The bust of President Truman on the University of Kansas City campus was doused with green and brown paint early yesterday.

It was the fourth time the bust had been the target of vandals since President Miguel Aleman of Mexico presented it to the university in 1947.

"It's getting to be a horrible bore," said Dean Norman Royall of the university. "It appears to be a thoroughly unimaginative job."

The new houses will be close to his own residence. "I like children around me," Brown said. "Over the years, I have found that only people who take care of a house and make it a home are these with a family."

Early Snow Falls Over Three States

Denver (AP)—An early cold mass pushing down the Rockies yesterday left chilly weather and up to two inches of snow on the ground in Colorado, Wyoming and Montana.

A road to the mountainous north entrance of Yellowstone park was closed for a time Thursday night by two feet of the white stuff. A light rain turned to snow during the night over plains areas.

In Denver, the wet, white blanket broke trees limbs, cut power lines and damaged late garden crops.

The temperature was in the high 80's across eastern Colorado Thursday. Thursday night it dropped near freezing. Last night a low of 29 was forecast along the edge of the mountains with clearing weather bringing a heavy frost.

Senators Clash On Tax Issue

Washington (AP)—Republican and Democratic senators clashed sharply yesterday on the country's ability to stand higher tax rates than Congress contemplates.

Senator Humphrey (D-Minn.) told the Senate that the nation is "strong enough to sustain the burden" of a new $9,000,000,000 tax bill.

He led the administration fight into its second day to boost the Senate's $3,500,000,000 tax measure to $9,000,000,000.

Senator Millikin (R-Colo.) retorted that prosperity did not seem to be reflected in a $260,000,000,000 public debt and a deficit in the next fiscal year that might reach $30,000,000,000.

The House bill, previously passed, calls for about $7,200,000,000 in new taxes.

President Truman wrote Vice President Barkley Thursday that the government needed a new tax bill approaching $10,000,000,000 to balance the budget and combat inflation.

To this, Chairman George (D-Ga.) of the Finance committee replied: "Not one more cent as far as I am concerned."

Builder Of Five Houses To Rent Only To Parents

The new houses will be close to his own residence. "I like children around me," Brown said.

Heads Of Both Major Parties Under Attack

Washington (AP)—Senators investigating the American Lithofold Corp. yesterday traced two of the printing firm's "goodwill" cameras to Matthew J. Connelly, a White House secretary, and Democratic National Chairman William M. Boyle Jr.

In another off-shoot of the inquiry, Republican National Chairman Guy George Gabrielson is still representing a private company before the Reconstruction Finance Corp.

Williams sharply condemned such a practice. Five Republican senators—Ferguson (Mich.), Case (SD), Cain (Wash.), Schoeppel (Kan.), and Dirksen (Ill.)—praised his speech. "We cannot point the finger of scorn and accusation at somebody else unless our own house is in order," Dirksen said.

The Senate's investigations subcommittee was to have heard more about the cameras from Cecil A. Green, American Lithofold's Washington representative, but after he had testified for about an hour he was excused for the time being. Several senators agreed he was "in no condition to testify."

Senator McCarthy asked if he had been drinking. Green replied he had one martini at lunchtime.

The probe into American Lithofold's affairs began after charges were made that Boyle used his political influence to help American Lithofold, a big St. Louis company, get $365,000 in RFC loans. Boyle has denied the charges, and President Truman has said he believes him.

Williams told the Senate: "I do not believe that any man who holds the position of chairman or vice chairman of a political committee has any right to represent private companies in a government loan."

Gabrielson, who is in New York, sent a telegram yesterday to Chairman Hoy (D-N.C.) of the subcommittee, requesting "the opportunity to appear before your investigating committee, tomorrow morning if possible, to give all the facts and clear up any misunderstanding concerning my business relations with the Reconstruction Finance Corp. as president and counsel for Carthage Hydrocol Inc. Comment on the Senate floor this afternoon makes it obvious that a misunderstanding has developed."

British Express Jumps Tracks; 13 Persons Die

Wotton, England (AP)—A Liverpool to London express jumped its tracks and plunged down a steep embankment yesterday, killing 13 persons, including a United States Air Force corporal.

About 50 of the 700 passengers in the 15-coach train were being treated at Northampton General hospital in the British Midlands last night. Others suffered minor injuries.

A brakeman probably prevented a second train, the north-bound Royal Scot, from plowing into the wreckage. Realizing the Royal Scot was due in about two minutes he raced down the track to a signal box and stopped that train.

The identity of the dead corporal had not been established officially, but papers in his uniform pocket bore the name of Cpl. August M. Buchholz.

Houses Explode Like Big String Of Firecrackers

Rochester, N.Y. (AP)—A chain of terrifying natural gas explosions rocked suburban Brighton yesterday, claiming three lives and flattening 15 homes.

Although the devastating blasts caused property damage estimated at from $500,000 to $1,000,000, only three persons were reported hospitalized with injuries or burns.

Six firemen were overcome by smoke or injured slightly in battling dozens of blazes in the splintered and torn dwellings.

Besides the 15 homes demolished, 16 others were damaged.

Gen. Ridgway Working On Reply To Reds

Tokyo, Saturday (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway today worked on his reply to the Communists—a message which may decide whether the Korean armistice talks will be resumed.

The headquarters of the supreme United Nations commander announced at 9:35 a.m. (8:35 p.m. Friday, EDT) that Ridgway was at work on the reply message.

There was no hint as to the nature of Ridgway's reply. The Communists have offered to resume the talks at once.

State To Make Public Secret Testimony

New York (AP)—The state yesterday planned to make public parts of bookie Harry Gross' dynamite-laden secret testimony against 18 policemen.

Brooklyn District Attorney Miles F. McDonald has a summary of grand jury testimony, sprinkled with the names of top cops who allegedly protected Gross' $20,000,000 a year gambling ring.

It was given in secret and Gross refused to repeat it publicly at the trial of the 18 policemen, who allegedly took $1,000,000 a year in bribes from him. As a result the case against the cops blew up.

But Kings County (Brooklyn) Judge Samuel S. Leibowitz told a news conference that McDonald will read the summary in Special Sessions court when Gross' comes up for sentencing next Thursday.

McDonald is going all out to try to wring from the Special Sessions court the stiffest possible prison term for the hunky Gross. The bookie faces a maximum 68 years on 66 counts of gambling and conspiracy.

The Weather

Increasing cloudiness and continued warm today, showers in west at night. Highest today 80 to 85 degrees. Cooler Sunday, showers likely.

"The Houses exploded like a giant string of firecrackers," a resident of the stricken area said. Early reports said seven persons were missing in the shattered dwellings but the coroner's office and police authorities said later that all persons presumably were accounted for.

The blast claimed the lives of two children directly. One person died of a heart attack, apparently brought on by the excitement.

More than 2,000 homes in the eight-block blast area were vacated on the order of police. All householders within a two-mile radius were told to shut off the gas lines.

Last night, hours after the first nighttime explosion, the evacuees were permitted to return to their homes.

The Red Cross said there was no immediate problem in finding quarters for the homeless families.

Six firemen were overcome by smoke or injured slightly while fighting the flames that enveloped several buildings. None was hospitalized.

The first blast was followed by about a dozen more explosions in rapid succession.

The blast area was bounded by Highland Avenue on the north, Avalon drive on the south, Westland Avenue on the west and Winston road on the east.

Most of the homes were so completely wrecked that it was difficult to tell if anyone had been trapped in them.

A utility company official said it was believed the first terrifying explosion apparently resulted from the failure of a regulator on a principal gas main to function.

The president of the Rochester Gas and Electric Corp., Alexander M. Beebe, said the regulator normally reduces heavy main pressure to permit the distribution of gas into residences.

The bodies of the two children, burned beyond recognition, were removed from the home of William J. Maas Jr., a lumber company official.

They were his daughter, Mary Anne, 8 and William, III, 4.

Another victim was Mrs. Louise A. Meyer, who died of a heart seizure while being removed from her home.

The injured included Hugh Criley, 16, of Allentown, Pa., a visitor in Brighton, who suffered first and second-degree burns. His condition was reported as fair.

Robert A. Paviour of the Rochester Board of Underwriters said damage would total $500,000 and that the average valuation of homes in the blast area was $25,000.

Several thousand school children were evacuated from grade and high schools on the fringe of the blast area. They were kept on the school playgrounds by police.

There were no explosions at the school buildings.

Three of Rochester's six radio stations were off the air for 30 minutes because of the blast. All have power stations near the stricken area.

Mrs. Anna Korus, a resident of one of the streets hardest hit by the blasts, said she was upstairs with her grandson, Neal, when her daughter yelled that the house was filling with gas.

"Grab Neal and run," the daughter screamed.

They reached the street just as the house was going up in flames. Some badly-tipped neighbors in the township of 18,000 were gripped by near panic. There was no serious disorder.

Move To Avert Strike

Washington (AP)—President Truman moved last night to halt a strike of some 30,000 workers set for Monday morning in a substantial part of the copper and brass fabricating industry.

Washington (AP)—The Senate yesterday confirmed President Truman's appointment of William C. Foster as deputy secretary of defense.

Much Work Entailed In Depot Project

Tobyhanna.—Railroad construction on the site of the new $33,000,000 Signal Depot here will involve laying of 50,800 linear feet of 90-pound rail tracks, 45 turnouts and 23 bumpers, Col. R. E. Cruse, district engineer for the Philadelphia district, Corps of Engineers disclosed yesterday in discussing the second phase of the project. Bids will be opened October 17.

The approximately ten miles of rail will be used to produce about five miles of trackage yards, largely located on or adjacent to the present route of the road from Tobyhanna to Gouldsboro.

Colonel Cruse said other phases of the new work will consist of construction of four general purpose warehouses . . . the first of a total of nine . . . building foundations and railroads. Each warehouse will be single-floor type providing a covered storage area 200 feet wide by 1,200 feet long. Foundations will be laid for 19 buildings ranging in size from 25 feet to 200 feet by 1,200 feet.

The first phase of construction on the depot is being accomplished by Rochez Brothers, Inc., of East Pittsburgh, Pa., under a $2,899,579 contract for excavation, grading and drainage awarded them last June by the Philadelphia district.

This site preparation includes 2-964,000 cubic yards of excavation and clearing and grubbing of 390 acres. Some 42,520 linear feet will be excavated to accommodate 37,235 feet of storm sewer pipe from 15" to 48" in diameter and 908 feet of reinforced concrete or clay pipe from 24" to 72" in diameter. Storm drains will necessitate rock removal of 10,000 cubic yards. Globe Contracting Co. of Philadelphia has the sub-contract for storm sewer work for an estimated $300,000.

About 325 men are now on the job and approximately 400 men will be employed at peak of operations. There are two eight-hour shifts. The first shift commences at 6:30 a. m., and the second at 3:30 p. m. After darkness sets in, 15 portable light plants are put into operation to permit the second shift to continue work.

Equipment being used by Rochez Brothers includes 32 bulldozers and tractors, 12 scrapers and 15 pans ranging from 15 to 24 cubic yard capacity, 4 power shovels, 4 cranes, 4 heavy rollers and 22 trucks from 13 to 15 cubic yard capacity, 2 rakes, 2 graders, 1 front end loader and several drills. Globe Contracting Co. is using 4 backhoes varying in size from 3 cubic yards to 2 cubic yards, 4 truck cranes from 1/2 cubic yards to 2 1/2 cubic yards, 3 compressors, 3 wagon drills and 6 jackhammers.

Bulldozers are used to fell the trees and uproot stumps in the clearing operations. The resulting debris is dozed into piles. Old automobile tires are placed on each pile and are then ignited by blowtorches. "Stone forks" mounted on bulldozers pile boulders and rocks loose from the ground and move them out of the way of the scrapers that follow. Cranes equipped with steel balls that weigh from one-and-a-half to two tons break up the larger boulders. Dynamite is used to break the remaining stone into smaller pieces. Stone under six inches can be used as part of the fill.

A communications system has been installed that contains 48 miles of telephone wire and two switchboards. For the present operations, 12 phones will be located throughout the site and hooked up with the field offices of the architect-engineer, the contractor and the resident engineer. Captain John A. Myers is resident engineer for the Philadelphia district, Corps of Engineers.

The inspection work is under the supervision of Mr. Russell Zerbe of the firm of Gilbey, O'Malley & Stopper, George Nicholson is the general superintendent for Rochez Brothers, Inc.

Father Of Seven Critically Ill With Polio; Red Cross, Police Seek Aid For Family

Stroudsburg police turned to the American Red Cross Chapter here yesterday to obtain aid for a family of eight whose father is a patient in St. Luke's hospital; Bethlehem with a severe attack of one of the more serious types of infantile paralysis.

Police said the family is that of Charles Tallada, 26, rear of 1022 West Main St., Stroudsburg, who was rushed to St. Luke's hospital Sunday.

His condition was so acute that he lost the use of his arms enroute to the hospital and was placed immediately in an iron lung on his arrival. Reports yesterday indicated his condition is critical and that he was given blood transfusions.

Officers Charles Allen and John Baujan set in motion the campaign to bring assistance to the family here during their current emergency.

The local chapter of National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, Walter Schoultz, chairman, has stepped into the picture with its finances to help defray expenses of finest treatment available.

But the Stroudsburg police were concerned yesterday with the care of the family. The children are being cared for by Mr. Tallada's father while Mrs. Tallada is at the hospital, they said.

Police said St. Luke's authorities advised the wife to be at the hospital because her husband obviously responds much better to treatments and the fight against the dread disease when she is present.

Turning to the Red Cross, the officers obtained $10 to purchase food for the seven children whose ages range from seven years down.

Red Cross, in addition to providing money for food, will make a thorough investigation of needs of the family and contact Monroe

County Commissioners for a discussion of these needs.

Larger Draft Calls

Young men in the Eastern Pennsylvania area, whether they be still in school or college or whether they abandoned their schooling at an early age to enter the country's business and industry, will look carefully over the recent pronouncements by Selective Service that larger draft calls and fewer deferments are inevitable.

Military manpower as the scarcest commodity in America at the present time, and with the continuing release of those who have done their service it is obvious that replacements must be selected and trained.

In the manpower pool there is a shortage of the 18½-year-old youths since there are only about 80,000 men a month becoming eligible. This comparatively low figure is attributed to the low birth rate years of the depression and may be expected to continue for another decade.

And the rejection rate is high, currently about 60 per cent, and much too high according to the conviction of many citizens.

Some 46,000 are expected to be called next month, with little possibility of reduction over the next two years. And if the nation is to maintain an armed force of 3,500,000 men, even larger calls must be expected.

Thus the Pennsylvanians who seek to plan their future must do so with an eye to the possibilities of receiving greetings from their President, since it is obvious that the requisite forces cannot be obtained by any other means.

Dispelling Confusion

The new committee formed in Washington to consider a national political realignment makes its primary appeal, both in its declaration of purpose and in its sponsoring personnel, to voters who resent excessive federalization and socialist trends.

It makes a secondary appeal to all thoughtful citizens who believe that a political label should truthfully describe what basic political principles are behind the label.

It is not always easy to calculate whether the radicals or conservatives profit most or lose most because party labels mislead so many voters; it is certain, however, that the country as a whole suffers greatly from the fog of confusion that has enveloped both political parties.

Outstanding leaders are conspicuous in the new movement, which evidences down-to-earth practicality in announcing as the first step towards its program a business-like survey to appraise the voters of the latitude afforded in each state for managing and altering the legal political parties. They are not always of one mind politically, but they find the new committee board enough to command their enthusiastic support.

It goes without saying that this committee hopes to bring about a profound change in the national political scene, presumably during the 1952 election as well as thereafter. The committee, evidently fully aware of the very real obstacles in the path of such a movement, has avoided sweeping promises and commitments. This very attitude of restraint may commend the committee to many thoughtful citizens who believe that both political parties should be more plainly identified with clear principles.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

The eleven-year-old offspring of wealthy New York parents showed unmistakable signs of maturity and Paper Magazine Sam Himmel suggested that the father give him the old bees-and-flowers routine. Papa duly assembled an imposing array of charts and photographs, summoned sonny boy and lectured him on sex fundamentals for a full hour.

Finally he said, "Well, Willy, that's the story. Now I'm sure you have some questions to ask." "Just one, papa," said the son. "What's the big idea of handling me this boring routine? I wanna be a cowboy."

A quickie picture producer in Hollywood, operating on a shoe-string budget, found himself unable to meet the salary demands of an actor he wanted for a supporting role. "I just haven't got the money," he confessed. "But I'll bet you're as hungry as I am—and I plan to use real pudding in the banquet scene."

Hollywood

By Gene Handsaker

Hollywood—It's quite all right with Jane Russell if British posters were revised to raise her neckline about 6 inches, as dispatches reported the other day. "Who cares?" the sultry beauty commented. But she thinks the whole matter is "a little silly" and furthermore: "They're probably carrying it too far."

"I was in London a year ago for a theater appearance," she added. "I went to parties. London ladies' dresses are just as low as American ladies' dresses."

The posters advertising her latest film release show her leaning over a reclining Robert Mitchum. In the version displayed here, the contours of her 38-inch bust are more clearly indicated, obviously, than in the retouched British posters.

"The boss (Howard Hughes) went to particular pains to get something that would not be censorable and still be of interest," Jane said. "I just think it's a very bad picture of Robert Mitchum. I look like a fat slob, and poor old Mitch is much prettier than he is in the poster. We look like we're having a nice, long chat. I've seen posters that look a million times more like a big, hot love scene."

A London dispatch said town officials objected that the original poster was harmful to adolescents. Jane termed this notion "ridiculous. Adolescents have 8,000,000 more ideas than they will get from looking at that."

Again revealingly costumed for "Son of Paleface," with Bob Hope, she didn't think the poster with Mitchum represented exploitation of her figure.

"It's something you see all the time on the street—in sun dresses, evening dresses, afternoon dresses, all kinds of dresses. Why should a billboard be any more the same way change the thinking of a child or an adult or anybody else?"

"I have a healthy attitude about the whole thing. Anybody who doesn't have a healthy attitude is dirty and should go hide in a closet."

These Days — By George E. Sokolsky

Sokolsky

"My Six Convicts" Years and years ago, when I was a young fellow still at college, I got me a job with an outfit called "The National Committee on Prisons and Prison Labor."

That experience whetted my appetite for this gruesome subject, so that I often read books which relate themselves to prisons and prisoners.

During those years, I read deeply in the subject of penology, and came in contact with some very remarkable men who either were seeking to change prison systems or who had been convicts. Once when I needed some tutoring in a few difficult subjects, a brilliant ex-convict, a man of the most profound learning aided me. Not all convicts are bad men, although most have a foolish side; not all bad men are in jail.

So, I read a book called "My Six Convicts," by Donald Powell Wilson, described as a psychologist who had studied convicts at Fort Leavenworth penitentiary. The author says:

"Out of deference to my administrators and colleagues whom I held in great respect, and to the prisoners themselves, six of whom comprised my regular staff of assistants, I have included literary license in the use of names, places and dates, and in the development of some of the episodes recorded . . ."

Well, I did not get excited about this book one way or the other until I read an article by Louis Messolonghites on "My Six Convicts" in "The Prison World," the official publication of the American prison association and the National Jail association. The aforesaid Louis Messolonghites I know well in King Features and regard him as capable of meticulous accuracy.

So Messolonghites wrote of "My Six Convicts":

" . . . Dr. Wilson says in his preface that the book is partly fictional, although the book's jacket claims that all of the events actually occurred, including the safecracker's holiday."

He wrote: "Dr. Wilson spent twenty months, not three years, at Fort Leavenworth."

"No prisoner was stabbed to death in the prison yard, as described on page 32."

"Wilson claims to have given a psychological examination to Al Capone. Capone was never in Fort Leavenworth."

"The safecracker incident — shades of Jimmy Valentine — did not take place at Fort Leavenworth, and it is doubtful if that ever happened in any prison."

"There was no prison break at Fort Leavenworth as Wilson says."

"His description of Fort Leavenworth's physical plant is inaccurate; with it he has mixed some features of the Joliet penitentiary."

E. R. Cass, general secretary, the American Prison association, and James V. Bennett, director, United States Bureau of Prisons, also oppose the book. Cass said:

" . . . the acceptance of the book by a glib public is disconcerting to those who have brought the federal prison system to a high level of operation and leadership . . ."

Bennett said:

"Much of the book is devoted to pulling out old chestnuts and repeating a few canards which Dr. Wilson in his utter naivete accepted as fact and all of the melodramatics are pure fiction put together in true Hollywood, grade B routine, style. The book is replete with fanciful stories, not one of which is true or has any basis in fact . . ."

Stanley M. Rinehart, Jr., the publisher of this book, who is a very competent man, quotes to me in rebuttal the following:

"In case you didn't read Austin McCormick's review in the June issue of 'Federal Probation,' he says among other things:

"There is no question that the book has helped create a more favorable climate for correctional progress. I am continually being asked by laymen what I think of the book, and invariably find that they enjoyed reading it and that their attitude toward prisoners as a whole, and toward prisons can accomplish in the way of rehabilitation has been decidedly changed for the better by reading it."

John Selby, editor-in-chief of the publishing house, says:

" . . . Wilson at no point ever claimed that his book was a minutely accurate history of his service at Leavenworth, and I don't believe it is fair to judge him or the book as if this claim had been made."

I conclude that this book is not a psychological or a sociological study but is a journalistic fictional effort with a prison background. Therefore, while it is interesting, I can not take it seriously.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Emergency Emil Writes Again

Dear Babe:

I am not sure what the score is over here in Korea but the Commies are out ahead in unsupported allegations, wild charges and loose insults. They are using a new type of war tactics known as the Dream Book Assault, which consists of dreaming up new charges every hour on the hour. The Red's new mystery weapon is a rapid-fire typewriter. Munchausen model, with special anti-recall devices attached. Ridgway and me just got accused of flying over Kaesong on a broom in violation of the agreement on witches.

It was a nice summer of mutual distrust. There never was a series of peace talks that made both sides more warlike. Malik turned out to be using the old upside-down talk by remote control. His record for never letting a peace idea get to first base remains 100 per cent. The whole thing was a farce comedy entitled "How Simple Can The Free World Get?" with music by the Chinese, words by Machiavelli and direction by Joe Stalin. We were always out-yelled, out-smearred and out-villified. In any dealings with the Commies you should get a Nobel peace prize if you come through without being forced to sue for defamation of character.

We are getting warden pants so I guess we are here for another winter. The Reds have used the cease-fire months to build themselves up, but our side did not use the intermission just to smoke cigarettes in the lobby. We have some big surprises for the Reds. I am getting used to war in strange faraway places. In fact the Army don't feel natural any more if it is in a country where there are no strange smells and a demand for interpreters. Join the Army (not the Navy) and see the world! A sailor doesn't get around at all compared to a GI today. This Army has cooks who have been in more parts of the world than any dozen admirals who can name. Being in the Navy these days is being in retirement.

Well, it was swell to read how Acheson and Dulles pitched no-hitters at Frisco where Gromyko was made null and void and stamped "Not good if punched" all over. Stopping a Ruskys from gumming up the works is a trick of the year and it makes Acheson our latest mystery weapon which we should stockpile at once. Say what you may about Dean he is no sucker for monkey wrenches. I hear he may be matched with Vishinsky, but that Vishinsky won't sign unless he can meet under the Marquis of Billingsgate rules and have any statement of fact called a foul.

What's new back home? Have the Glants sued for peace? What's the latest communique from the fighting in the Hollywood colony? I see a couple of fellows got around $200,000 each for fighting thirty minutes in a baseball park, free from minefields, booby traps, ambushes and canned eggs and got praised for showing raw courage! Well, it is all in the point of view and I trust the two boys did not suffer from a lack of blood plasma.

Keep your chin up, honey, and whenever you hear of the Foreign Legion think of me as I am getting more foreign with every new command from my sarge. (Paul Revere got famous in history and he only traveled a few miles on horseback. I've been farther than Dr. Livingstone, Jules Verne, Ferie Mesta, Eisenhower, Citation and Averell Harriman put together, and on foot, too. When you and I get married we must make a trip around the world. Heaven forbid.

All my love, Emil

Gotham now has parking meters for the first time and while used in the sticks for decades, they are such a novelty in the metropolis that we saw a fellow put in a coin and hold out his hand for salted peanuts. "What happens?" asked one New Yorker after inserting the money with much fumbling. . . . "If you win you get your car back," we answered. . . . Strictly big league in every mood and word was the Oscar Hammerstein II Story on "Toots of the Town," with Hammerstein and his partner Dick Rodgers registered as an extra called to "take a chance" . . . $1,000 in it would have brought you $40,000. . . . Peddling His Papers

Our anecdote last week about Frank Costello's golfing scores brought this space a filler from a Scripps-Howard staffer who probably enjoys the anonymity of no byline. "A columnist continues his role of apologist for Frank Costello, even to the point of defending his prowess as a golfer."

Good reporters (it says here) that make news in every field acquaint themselves with Names . . . Because any entertaining or interesting story about them is news . . . The adverts used by The N. Y. Times to salute Meyer Berger (its reportorial ace) included this: "Berger knows New York intimately as few have ever known it. . . . He knows its characters — priests and pugs, the law and the lawless — as Damon Runyon knew them. Even Dutch Schultz spoke softly and with respect when Mike Berger of the N. Y. Times was around."

The N. Y. Times, incidentally, published an amusing anecdote about Gromyko that same day. Does that (we get so clever when we have a pushover) make the N. Y. Times an apologist for Russia? . . . Jes call me Sugar Ray Winchell.

The beat of this week: From Our Sunday Nighter of Sept. 16: "Insiders tell me that 80% of the cops will beat the rap. No corroboration."

From the Sept. 19th headlines: "Eighteen cops freed. Star witness won't talk."

We were on holiday when that Sioux City story broke about the Indian soldier hero being refused burial there because his skin was red . . . Spoiler our whole vacation because we had no handy saphox . . . At any rate, Sgt. John R. Rice was buried with full military honors in our national cemetery at Arlington, thanks to the President's thrilling punch-in-the-nose for those Sioux City foreigners . . . The irony of it: Sgt. Rice, a Winnebago Indian refused burial in a city named after a great Indian tribe.

The Dept. of State refused to rule on whether it regards Tass (the Russian news agency) primarily as a propaganda or news-gathering group . . . There is more stupidity than diplomacy in this decision . . . Obviously, every newspaperman representing a dictatorship must serve as a propaganda agent for the dictator. Otherwise he becomes a target for a firing squad. P. S.: Tass men are registered as Foreign Propaganda Agents!

"The Rise and Fall of Hermann Goering" (published by Houghton-Mifflin) offers this eyebrow-lifter: "Goering was a of their country. To all people, especially to the young people, Paul's words should mean much. All the world and its people are under God's love and care."

What we call the "underprivileged" are their brothers and sisters—the often hungry, unclothed peoples in lands far away, who do not have our blessings—all are God's people, and we should act as if they were and try to tell them of Christ and bind them to us with "still closer ties than those of blood," as a wise preacher has said.

As Paul wrote to the Romans some years later: "For there is no difference between the Jew and the Greek; for the same Lord over all is rich unto all that call upon Him."

But this news (about his ashes) is something to enjoy: The cremation was carried out at Dachau concentration camp, where hundreds of thousands of Jews and Anti Nazis had been imprisoned and met their death. The last remaining incinerator of original Nazi design was used. At the Tribunal's order, the ashes of Hermann Goering, originator of concentration camps, were thrown onto the trash heap.

The Big Illusion gripping and choking many network and advertising execs (that teevy has almost obliterated radio and other entertainment media) was effectively shattered by John Crosby, an authority on the subject . . . He quoted this from Fortune: "The big story about teevy today is no longer one of irresistible power. It lies rather in the unexpectedly strong bargaining position of teevy's competitors, heretofore given up for lost, and in the equally unexpected weakness of the new medium."

Then there's Variety's report that the motion picture business is thriving, despite pessimistic assertions a year ago that teevy was murdering it . . . Mr. Crosby (in the Herald Tribune) added: "These are just a few of the portents indicating that tv has reached a state whereby it may very well be losing its audience."

That John, in hardly a skeep to our readers. We have repeatedly proved that radio's audience outnumbers teevy's —

Isn't it about time for Hollywood to do something about it?

I mean the decent Hollywood—the Hollywood in which thousands of law-abiding, hard-working, respectable Americans live, work, and own their homes.

In spite of all the wonderful advantages Hollywood has — climate, scenery, beauty, all the average person knows about Hollywood is the fact that it is America's movie capital and that a large number of its inhabitants behave like a bunch of idiots.

Take just ONE issue of a New York newspaper.

A three-column headline: "Sinatra Denies Suicide Try; I Just Had A Bellyache."

All about Sinatra taking an overdose of sleeping pills after a fight with Ava Gardner.

True, the story does not come from Hollywood, but from Lake Tahoe, but Sinatra and Gardner ARE Hollywood, and Hollywood has to bear the brunt of their misbehavior.

Headline No. 2 in the same paper:

"Rita Arrives In Slacks. All Set To Dust Off Aly."

Dateline Reno— but Hollywood gets the credit — or rather the debit — for it.

Here's another one:

"Jilted Sultor Sues For 17g Ring."

It's all about "screen actress" Helen Gilbert, who is being sued by a man who asserts she broke off her engagement to him, and who wants his $17,000 engagement ring back.

It's all about "screen actress" Helen Gilbert, who is being sued by a man who asserts she broke off her engagement to him, and who wants his $17,000 engagement ring back.

It's all about "screen actress" Helen Gilbert, who is being sued by a man who asserts she broke off her engagement to him, and who wants his $17,000 engagement ring back.

It's all about "screen actress" Helen Gilbert, who is being sued by a man who asserts she broke off her engagement to him, and who wants his $17,000 engagement ring back.

On the same page:

"Abbe Lane Squares Off For Court Fight On Triangle."

It's all about the nineteen-year-old singer who claims that what is supposed to be a nude picture of her taken in a hotel room by Xavier Cugat's wife isn't her picture at all.

I am not familiar with the circumstances. Maybe the picture is Cugat's Chihuahua dog, for all I know.

But I do know that it's darn bad publicity for Hollywood.

And so it goes almost every day. Actors committing suicide; kicking people in the jaw; being arrested for speeding; for being drunk; for fighting in public places.

That sort of thing doesn't only hurt HOLLYWOOD. It hurts the movies in general.

The picture moguls are very much concerned over bad business.

People don't go to the movies anymore, they say, and blame it on television.

It isn't television, you gentlemen of the cinema and you bankers who back them.

It is the low morals and the shenanigans of your high-priced actors and actresses.

The public is disgusted. It refuses to see a fellow who is a maudlin drunk in real life portrayed as a moon-light hero, or a girl who is a bum as "the girl of my dreams."

I see in the same paper that Cheta, the monkey, is getting upwards of $10,000 a year, and all she needs for a happy life is "a cage, a few bananas and a couple of quarts of milk a day."

Which is more than one could say about a lot of the human stars.

Business Women Hear Talk On Infantile Paralysis Drive

The Business and Professional Woman's Club opened their fall activities with a program devoted to the work and needs of the National Federation for Infantile Paralysis, at the dinner meeting held Thursday night at the Penn-Stroud hotel.

The program had been arranged by Miss Elizabeth Martin, chairman of the club's Public Affairs committee.

Gerald Anderson, president of Rotary club and treasurer of Infantile branch presented the guests: Jacob L. Cohen, Rotary Club, March of Dimes drive chairman; John R. Wilson, and Walter Schlough, chairman of the Monroe County chapter.

Mr. Schlough pointed out there are still 15 local cases under care of the local organization, including a young woman in the Warm Springs foundation, in Ga., and a young man, father of 6 children who is in an iron lung. If it were not for the national foundation and the local chapter, his family would be in a dire predicament, he said.

Robert Jones state director for National Foundation of Infantile Paralysis, was introduced by Mr. Schlough as the chief speaker at the meeting. Mr. Jones traced the origin of the Warm Springs Foundation in 1930 and the beginnings of the national foundation in 1938, organized primarily to promote research into the cause of the disease.

The program was expanded to help anyone in need through local organizations, of which there are now 3,000 county chapters, he said. The research work is still a major project, but educational programs and direct assistance are also big factors in the work.

Old cases, carried over from year to year, plus the new ones as they come along make for increased case loads, he pointed out, and this year's campaign must be bigger and better than ever.

A film was shown on "Mother's March of Dimes", a modern method of fund raising.

Just Between Us

—By Bobby Westbrook

Well, what do you know — we made it to the end of the week, an accomplishment in itself, especially since most of us had to ride the social merry-go-round, no hands. One hand being busy scribbling notes on future engagements, and the other crammed with paper handkerchiefs.

Either you were coughing or blowing — or maybe it just seemed to me that the whole world had this unmentionable whatever it is. The symptoms I described the other day, a good friend informed me, sounded just like a marijuana addict.

However, currently the symptoms have narrowed down to a total inability to taste or smell. In the long run it's the family with full taste facilities which suffers. The cook figures that since everything tastes the same anyway, the same menu ought to satisfy them day after day.

Fortunately, one can still perceive color an dit ran riot in the Children's Farm show down at Smithfield school last night. And, my, what a difference the summer has made in the children who only came up to here last spring.

Another amazing sight were two of the cars parked in the Penn-Stroud garage the other night. One was a Pierce-Arrow, and the other a Stutz-Bearcat — shades of Gene Stratton Porter and all the romantic stories of the 1920's, so that's what they looked like.

'Portraits' Combine Opera, Concert And Musical Comedy

"Musical Portraits" was conceived by the desire of three brilliant young musicians—Emmalina DeVita, soprano, William Metcalf, baritone, Dana Lordly, accompanist—arranged to combine opera, concert, and musical comedy and present them in a unique and entertaining fashion, as they are to do on Tuesday, September 25, when they appear in the auditorium of the Inn at Buck Hill Falls at 8:30 p. m.

Emmalina DeVita, possessor of a lyric-coloratura voice of unusual dramatic brilliance comes by her musical aptitude and talent quite naturally, for her father is a fine musician and her great-grandfather was an Italian opera singer of considerable fame. Although she studied piano and dancing, Miss DeVita's first love is singing. A student of Boris Goldovsky and a member of the New England Opera Theatre, she has had the advantage of fine teaching which, combined with the natural dramatic and vocal talent, point to a brilliant operatic career. Her most recent triumph was as the lead in "Adrienne" in the first performance of this work in Boston.

Dana Lordly, pianist-arranger, is a native of western Canada and began his musical education there; and after appearing as soloist with the Provincial Symphony and presenting a full recital of his own compositions, the Provincial Government awarded him a scholarship for further study in the United States. Not only a truly talented pianist and accompanist, but a successful composer, and arranger of music and musical comedy he even directs the acting as well as the music in the musical comedies.

William Metcalf, young American baritone, has enjoyed exceptionally successful concert and oratorio engagements, the number completely belying his comparative youth. He has sung the lead in the New England Opera Company; was soloist with the New England Conservatory Chorus and Orchestra; and recently was featured in "Down in the Valley" with the Providence Philharmonic. His career to date reached a high point when he was selected to appear as guest soloist with the Boston Pop's Orchestra in Symphony Hall.

Penn State To Reopen Center Here

William P. Taylor, district representative for the Pennsylvania State College, announced yesterday that the results of a community-wide survey, completed this week in the Stroudsburg area indicate the need and desire of the Penn State Evening Class center in the East Stroudsburg High school this fall.

Inaugurated in the Spring of this year, classes in typing, fundamentals of drafting, and gauging were held two nights per week. As a result of personal interviews with personnel managers, executives, employees, civic groups, and businessmen of the community, plans are now being completed for continuation of this evening class center program by Penn State.

According to Mr. Taylor, courses in which interest has been shown, and therefore will be offered for the Fall term, are accounting, elementary and advanced; drafting; industrial processes (metal workings study); tool design; industrial organization and management; methods analysis; the shop foreman; algebra; trigonometry; speech; and typing, elementary and advanced.

Classes will again be held in the East Stroudsburg High school two nights per week. In announcing the reopening of Penn State facilities, Mr. Taylor said, "In talking with both personnel men and the Pennsylvania Employment service representative in Stroudsburg, I am informed that there is a continual need for technically trained personnel. According to the PES the demand for trained men and women in such fields as drafting, blueprint reading, tool design, etc., is much greater than the supply. Salaries are attractive, working conditions pleasant. . . . The jobs offered have all the requisites desired by an employee. . . . The problem is that there just aren't sufficient qualified men or women to fill the openings."

"This certainly points up the desperate need for skilled, trained personnel. . . . thus the need for a place of training for employees desiring to go into a specialized line, which in turn would afford them better paying positions. It is to meet this need of the community, that the Pennsylvania State College will again hold evening classes in East Stroudsburg."

Further information regarding registration, class openings, etc., will be announced next week.

Chestnuthill, Warners Win Log-Sawing

The log-sawing contests between teams composed of Future Farmers of American chapters and also adults featured the Wyckoff-Sears farm show last night. There was a good-sized crowd of spectators on hand to witness the competitions.

There were six FFA teams in the competition, Greene-Dreher failing to have representation. The boys sawed through 12-inch green beechwood logs.

Two cash prizes were awarded. Chestnuthill school team—Charles Hoffman and Gerald Melzell—took first prize, time 36 seconds. Second prize went to the Stroudsburg school duo—Alfred Frantz and Jack Harps—time, 36.2-0 seconds.

The other teams and their time follow: Pen Argyl, Darwin Hess and Gerald Kessler, time 46 8-10 secs.; third, Bangor, Frank Commune and Clarence LaBar, time 51 secs.; fourth, Pocono Twp., Homer Smith and Carl Kresge, time 1 min. 22 secs.; fifth, Polk Twp., Martin Kreckel and Raymond Hawk, time 1 min. 22-5 secs.; sixth.

There were three teams which competed in the adult class from Monroe county; also a non-compellitor.

Jacob Warner and Robert Warner Jr., formed the winning team, sawing through 15-inch logs, their time being 24 9-10 seconds. This team will represent Monroe county in the log sawing contests at the State Farm show at Harrisburg in January of next year.

Robert Warner Sr. and William Wildrick were second, their time having been 26 seconds flat. In third place were William and Albert Warner, time 30.2-10 seconds.

Chester Transue, of Wind Gap, and Arthur Frantz, of East Bangor, in their exhibition, were timed at 35 seconds flat.

A. E. Hitt, county agent, acted as starter, W. B. Frisbie, Vo. Ag. advisor, recorder, and E. Clyde Pyle, forestry leader, timer for the log sawing contests.

Greene-Dreher Twp. school was the winner of the FFA judging contests on Thursday afternoon. Bangor was second and Pocono township third. There were six boys from each of the seven schools in the district, or a total of 42 lads who did the judging.

They judged two classes of dairy heifers, one of swine and one of sheep.

The total amount of prize money awarded the exhibitors in the vocational agriculture classes was approximately $877, it was announced last night. The total for home economic exhibits to the girls was $450, or a total of $1,327.

Karl Miller, Bangor, was the recipient of the greatest amount of money, $64 for seven prizes. However, Harry Schoenagel, Greene-Dreher, received the largest number of prizes, nine.

It is interesting to note that two girls with the same name are often confused when they are in the same school contests. Harry Young, principal of Polk Twp. school, made a special trip to the education exhibits to inform the group that both Shirley E. Serfass and Shirley M. Serfass are the two girls from his school. Shirley E. Serfass, 9th grader, was the highest winner with a total of $61.50. She had a total of 5 1st prizes, 4 seconds, 5 thirds, 4 fourths and two fifths, or 29 in all.

Polk township girls were the highest money winners. Anna M. Feller, 11th grade, received a total of $47.50; Marlene Zacharias, 9th grade, $30.25; Grace Smale, 12th grade, $21.50 and Marie Getz, 9th grade, $20.

The show will come to a close at 9 tonight.

The prizes will be awarded at the Recreation hall over the Sears-Roebuck farm store, N. Sixth St. tonight at 8.

State Bureau Cooperating In Promotion

The State Bureau of Rehabilitation yesterday announced that it would cooperate to the utmost in the annual observance of National Employ the Physically Handicapped week, which will be held this year from October 7-13.

Tom E. Williams, manager of the Bureau's Wilkes-Barre district office, which includes Montour, Columbia, Sullivan, Luzerne, Lackawanna, Wyoming, Bradford, Susquehanna, Wayne, Pike and Monroe counties, said he and his staff will work with veterans' organizations, unions, medical societies, State Employment service, crippled children's societies, employers and other interested groups and individuals in making the annual observance a success.

"In reality we observe Employ the Physically Handicapped week throughout the year," Williams said, "because we are constantly rehabilitating disabled persons to the point where they are available for and capable of fulfilling gainful jobs."

During the past year an all-time high of 19,000 Pennsylvania citizens, many from the local area, were included in the Bureau's case load. Many of these persons have already completed their rehabilitative program and now are available for jobs in various fields. Others will be ready for employment at different times throughout the ensuing year.

All Pennsylvania citizens 16 years of age or over, who have a permanent disability which prevents them from engaging in gainful employment but who can be prepared for jobs, and those who have been injured and are unable to return to their old positions, are eligible for the bureau's services.

Life of Riley

By JIM RILEY
Sports Editor

Everyone closely associated with the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association and scholastic football were shocked to hear of the death of Edmund Wicht on Thursday, even though the man was regarded as the PIAA himself had been ailing for the past two years. However, there wasn't anyone more upset than Dr. Frank P. Maguire, former coach at Stroudsburg and East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, who is now commissioner of scholastic football and basketball officials in Pennsylvania and a member of the national rules committee in both sports, has been associated with Wicht since 1929.

Maguire, who had lunch with Wicht last weekend and was scheduled to meet him in Harrisburg again today, was visibly shaken by the news that spread rapidly to all corners of the Keystone state on Thursday. Twenty-two years of association with one person is certain to form a fast friendship and the Wicht-Maguire pact was no exception. The two have worked together almost as one since 1936 and both have done much to make the PIAA the strong body it is at the present time and each in turn has given much to high school athletics in Pennsylvania.

Wicht has been criticized on many fronts, but on each occasion he has stuck by his guns and virtually every time won his point, regardless of the odds. However, even those who opposed Ed on many issues regarded him as the backbone of the PIAA and certainly were only too eager to admit that he had the good of scholastic athletics at heart, even though they didn't agree with the executive director in some of the ways he enforced the various rules. Friends and foes alike often join ranks at the graves of those well known people who pass away and such will be the case at the funeral of Edmund Wicht, "Mr. PIAA."

It was only in June that Wicht attended the annual banquet at the Penn Stroud hotel by the Eastern Pennsylvania Scholastic Coaches Association, during his week long clinic at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College. Wicht was obviously in poor health at the time, using a cane to support his large frame and in general taking things easy so as not to cause further damage to his already weak physical condition. However, the final stroke occurred when Wicht was hard at work at his desk—giving his best to scholastic sports right to the end.

Close association and the work that Maguire has turned in during his many dealings with sports certainly qualifies the resident of East Stroudsburg for the position of executive director of the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic Association. Although the popular former local coach hasn't been contacted along the lines of his feelings toward this job, this writer would like to nominate him for the position formerly held by Wicht, a position that I know he could fill with as much success as that which has marked his athletic career.

During my short acquaintance with Maguire he has struck me as a quick, solid thinking individual, with the desire to do the most he can for athletics, both scholastically and collegiately. His outstanding ability to deliver great after dinner speeches also should stand him in the pole position in the race for the PIAA director's job. Lewis Kost, Norristown, is regarded as another candidate for the office which Wicht occupied for 22 years.

However, even though Maguire was mentioned as a possible successor to Wicht yesterday, before this column was written, I want it to be known that this writer is among the group who would like to see the former local coach take over the position. I didn't know Dr. Maguire during his heyday as a coach, but I have known him in recent years and I would like to state right now that the job couldn't go to a better person, both professionally and socially.

The formation of a State Teachers College Conference for all forms of athletics is a move that should have been made five or six years ago, but since it actually has become a reality at this time, I guess there is no use to complain. It will be good in many ways, but best of all this writer expects to see it put all the 14 teachers colleges on an even keel on the athletic field. In recent years two or three of the schools have been loading up with athletic material and their records in virtually every sport have shown that the top flight material has played off handsomely.

Oscar J. Liljenstein, athletic director at East Stroudsburg State Teachers College, was named vice president of the new circuit, giving the local area an added interest in the setup. I hope that each official named to positions in the new athletic setup will see that each and every school marches on the line drawn up as proper procedure in college athletics.

Stroudsburg Grid Machine Takes Measure Of Emmaus

Fetherman, Williams Cross Goal Line

Two lightning like thrusts in the second quarter enabled Stroudsburg High school to open the 1951 Lehigh Valley league race with a victory last night, as the Mountaineers scored a 12-6 decision over Emmaus High, before a large crowd at Gordon Giffels field. The win also enabled the Mountaineers to even their record at one win and the same number of setbacks for the present campaign.

Stroudsburg's forward wall lived up to its pre-season reputation and made paths for the maroon and white clad high stepping backs to run, while not breaking up an Emmaus offensive thrust.

However, all the excitement of the game was restricted to the second quarter as far as the home town fans were concerned, with the Mountaineers pushing across a pair of six-pointers in less than a minute.

The Mountaineers opened their only scoring march of the game late in the second period after Bill Morman recovered an Emmaus fumble, one of four by each team in the game, on the Stroudsburg 38.

Alden "Red" Fetherman picked up eight yards and Karl Weingartner made it a first down on the 48. Fetherman blasted to the Emmaus 47 and a jump pass from Fetherman to Dick "Shorty" Schmidt gave the Mountaineers another first down on the Emmaus 26. Weingartner hit to the 19, where he was forced to leave the game because of a leg injury. Fetherman gave Stroudsburg a first down on the 14.

Fetherman went to the 13, a pass by Dave Shook was incomplete and Fetherman crashed to the 12, as Emmaus had apparently stalled the Stroudsburg attack. However, on fourth down Shook shot a pass down the middle to Fetherman, who juggled the ball and then lunged across the goal line with two Emmaus tacklers hanging on.

Fetherman's attempt at the extra point was low and wide of its mark.

Emmaus received the kickoff seconds later and on the first play from scrimmage attempted a pass. However, Floyd Williams, rushing in from his right end position knocked the ball from the hands of Charley Ramer, grabbed the pigskin and streaked over the goal line ten yards away. Fetherman's attempt at the extra point was blocked by the charging Emmaus line.

Emmaus escaped a whitewash by scoring midway in the final period, as Mike Miller reeled off 22 yards to put the ball on the Stroudsburg 19, from where Ramer broke off tackle for the touchdown. The attempt at the extra point was blocked.

Stroudsburg threatened twice in the second half, one drive ending on the 25 in the third quarter and the other stalled on the 11 by the game ending horn.

Emmaus never got closer than the 20 yard line, except for its one scoring burst in the final period. Stroudsburg follows:

Yankees Increase Lead In American League Pennant Dash With Victory Over Red Sox

Boston (AP)—Allie Reynolds helped boost the New York Yankees' American league lead to one and one-half games yesterday, when Joe DiMaggio rammed a line single to center scoring Yogi Berra the Yankees lead, Boston never had it when Reynolds turned on the old pressure.

After another Yankee run scored on four straight singles in the second, the Red Sox put on their big threat in the fourth. Singles by Johnny Pesky and Ted Williams, followed by Clyde Vollmer's double off the left field wall produced one run but Williams was cut down at the plate by Hank Bauer's throw as he tried to score first with the tying run.

Two walks, one intentional, Gil McDougald's single and Gerry Coleman's outfield fly widened the gap to 3-1 in the sixth, Kiely departed soon after the run when he walked Joe Collins.

Even Kinder, the Sox' 1951 candidate for most valuable player honors, didn't escape. Mickey Mantle's double, a free pass to Joe DiMaggio and McDougald's triple that bounced past Dom DiMaggio in center added two more runs.

They were the first scored off Kinder in 29 innings since August 17. Bill Wight worked the hitless ninth after Kinder faded for a pinch hitter.

Only Berra failed to hit safely in the Yankees' nine-blow barrage. New York, 110 001 200-5 9 0 Boston, 000 100 000-1 6 0

Good Pitching
But Cleveland was almost completely handcuffed by Hutchinson, who took over in the second when the Indians made all five of their runs off Detroit starter Ted Gray. The deciding marker came on Frank House's first major league homer in the sixth.

Although Feller gave the Bengals five of their seven run total in the two and one-third innings he tossed, Blazing Bob escaped his first defeat of the season against four victories opposing the Tigers. The loss, instead, went to Steve Gromek, second of three Indian tossers.

Questions
With that the man who will govern baseball for at least the next seven years got down to answering questions. First, where did he intend to establish his new office?
"I think it will be right here," he said. "I haven't really had time to think about it yet, but I can't conceive of leaving New York."

Frick's home is at Bronxville, some 20 miles from his present office, where he is a pillar of the St. Andrews Curling club. He probably wouldn't have taken the $65,000 job if it meant giving up curling.

When did he intend to take over the commissioner's duties?
"Certainly not until they've elected a new National League president and I've had a chance to settle him into the job," Frick replied. "I don't know when that will be, but I don't see how it can possibly be before November 1."

Kentucky, Texas Feature Grid Slate

New York, (AP) — The football bug who glances casually over today's national college schedule and concludes in some bewilderment that he must somehow have gotten hold of an old, last winter's paper is to be treated with kind understanding.

With the first day of autumn only just at hand, it says here that the Kentucky Wildcats are playing the Texas Longhorns at Austin, Texas, and that Southern Methodist's Mustangs are engaging the engineers of Georgia Tech at Atlanta, both this afternoon.

It is no misprint, either. The boys just couldn't wait for a bowl game invitation. They want to find out now.

The clash at Austin sends the team which lost to Tennessee in the last Cotton Bowl — Texas — against the great Kentucky club which vanquished Oklahoma, the nation's top ranking eleven, in the last Sugar Bowl.

As "Babe" Fapili demonstrated in last week's opener that he still can throw strikes with a football, a majority of impartial experts are giving Kentucky an edge over a Texas team which is supposed to have lost some of its 1950 power. But a thin edge.

Slight Edge
Southern Methodist, having lost some of its glamor with the departure of Kyle Rote, is supposed to be in for a rough afternoon against an improved Georgia Tech.

Several other games around the nation are almost equal standouts as the big boys get further away from the old practice of feeding on setups for the first several weeks.

Two of the South's traditional rivals, North Carolina and North Carolina State, collided at Chapel Hill. North Carolina, sparked by Billy Williams, is expecting a happy season, but could have its dreams rudely shattered at the outset.

Michigan State, newest power in the mid-West, is expected to show its muscles at the expense of Oregon State at East Lansing in one of the weekend's intersectional features. Fordham, and up-and-coming eastern outfit, is given some chance of knocking off the Missouri Tigers in another cross-country test at Columbia, Mo.

In the far west, the perennial champion California Bears open at Berkeley against Santa Clara's always lively Broncos, and Southern California entertains Washington State at Los Angeles. Stanford plays Oregon at Eugene.

Cardinals Edge Chicago, 6-0

St. Louis (AP) — Little Jackie Collum made his entry into major league baseball an impressive one last night as he set down the Chicago Cubs on a two-hitter to give the St. Louis Cardinals a 6-0 victory.

A 24-year-old southpaw brought up from Rochester of the International league just last Sunday, Collum tied a little toward the end as he walked two in the ninth. The Cardinals' fourth double-play of the night saved the shutout, however, and ended the game.

Robin Roberts went the distance on the mound for the Phillies, although rapped smartly by the Dodgers, to rack up his twenty-first victory against 12 defeats. Philadelphia, 430 001 001-9 12 1 Brooklyn, 001 200 300-6 8 2
